

WOMAN FACES CHAIR TONIGHT: IS IN COLLAPSE

DALADIER FACES PARLIAMENT TO SEEK APPROVAL

Observers Believe Strong French Premier Stands Good Chance There

Paris, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Premier Daladier, continuing his strong action to halt strikes by manning the liner Paris with navy men, whipped together today demands for parliamentary approval of his administration.

"You wanted a strong government—you've got it," will be the essence of his words to the opening session of parliament tomorrow.

Political observers said the premier stood a good chance of crushing through the chamber of deputies with a margin of 100 votes in favor of his regime, which he has pledged to the rehabilitation of a weakened French economy and the strengthening of armaments.

The senate appeared to be almost unanimous for him.

The premier's Radical-Socialist party, through its legislative committee, today rejected a government suggestion that the question of election reforms be brought up immediately when parliament convenes. They insisted instead that the 1939 budget and economic decree laws take priority over a rightist campaign for election changes.

Daladier, counting on rightist and center parties to give him a chamber majority, had consented to make the election proposal one of the main issues of the session.

Some parliamentary circles called the committee action a "severe defeat" for Daladier although only 49 of the 114 Radical-Socialist deputies attended the meeting.

Criticism

Bitter criticism was expected from Communists and Socialists of three points of the Daladier program—his use of mobile guards and police to crush strikes held to endanger an upward economic climb, decree laws imposing new taxes, and the French-German friendship agreement.

His creation of a committee to reduce government jobs, ban creation of new ones, and effect other economies was another salient point.

The strike question was the most dangerous, however, since socialists and Communists have charged Daladier with using dictatorial methods.

Has Upper Hand

Chamber circles held Daladier had the upper hand because of his victory in crushing the one-day general strike last week, although other strikes continued.

French naval specialists, all trained to handle merchant ships in war time, filled out the crew of the liner Paris last night and sailed her from Le Havre, where French Line employees are on strike.

In the Paris region and elsewhere most factories closed since the general strike reopened and took back most of their employees. The General Confederation of Labor kept up the fight, however, against discharge of workers who were considered strike leaders.

Albert Thomas, 37, metal workers' union secretary at Valenciennes and confessed instigator of a wave of strikes in the northern industrial region, today was sentenced to one year in prison for labor agitation.

He was a native of Morocco, Ind., where funeral services will be held, probably tomorrow.

Iowa Canvassing Board Awards Office to Demo

Des Moines, Iowa, Dec. 7.—(AP)—The Iowa State Canvassing board today awarded re-election of U. S. Senator Guy M. Gillette, Dem., by a 2,805 vote margin over his Republican opponent, former Senator L. J. Dickinson.

The board complied official returns from the state's 99 counties but will not issue Gillette an election certificate until the canvass for all offices is completed.

Its figures showed that Gillette polled 413,758 votes in the Nov. 8 election, against 410,983 for Dickinson.

Authoritative

Belvidere, Ill., Dec. 7.—(AP)—It might not work for some public officials, but William Bowley has pursued a policy of never refusing a favor.

Keeping politics out of the administration of his office has helped, too, Bowley added.

Bowley speaks with some degree of authority as a veteran public official. He has spent 44 of his 75 years as Boone County Clerk and has just started his 12th consecutive term.

Friend of Bowley, a Republican, claimed he was the nation's oldest county clerk in age and continuous service.

GOODFELLOW FUND NEARS $200 MARK AS PLEAS COME IN

The Evening Telegraph Goodfellow fund neared the $200 mark today due to the generosity of some more Goodfellows, but the flow of incoming donations is not keeping pace with the flood of incoming requests or help for the many little boys and girls in this city who will have no happy Christmas unless the Goodfellows will extend a helping hand.

There are hundreds of little folks in Dixon whose Christmas will be a very lonely, drab and cheerless day unless the Goodfellows come to their aid. How about it, Goodfellow?

Hull Predicts Benefits of Pan-American Meeting

Callao, Peru, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Secretary Hull, pausing here on his way to the Pan-American conference at Lima, said today he expected the sessions to contribute heavily to "inter-American solidarity and understanding."

Hull, referring to progress already made toward "an international order based on peace, confidence and consideration of welfare" for Western Hemisphere people, said:

"We should spare no effort to consolidate the gains made, and to assure the continuance and safeguarding of our American system."

The American delegation, officially welcomed by Laurence A. Steinhardt, American ambassador to Peru, headed next for the nearby capital city of Lima, where the conference will open Friday.

"Get Acquainted Page" in Telegraph This Evening Should Give Readers Fun, Prizes

"Dixon's Get Acquainted Page" is the title of the double spread on pages 6 and 7 of the Dixon Telegraph today. Anyone suffering from frown-itis is warned not to look there, unless they are willing to have frowns turned into smiles and even giggles.

The Get Acquainted page presents the pen and ink cartoons of the personalities behind 35 business firms of this city. All are in characteristic poses, but none of the names are given and it is up to the reader to figure out who is who.

It will be a worth while pastime, by the way, for several valuable prizes are offered to persons submitting the nearest, most attractive and nearest correct list of answers. The total of the prizes is $25.00. Be sure that your replies get to the Dixon Telegraph by Tuesday, December 14th.

Members of the Dixon Telegraph force will not be in the least offended if the edition today is referred to as "the funny paper." In fact, anticipating the demand, extra copies have been prepared for business men to send their friends in distant places to show how they look in the "Funny Paper."

NEW ANTI-FRENCH OUTBURSTS KEEP AGITATION ALIVE

Italians Continue Clamor for Territories Under The Tri-Colors

Rome, Dec. 7.—(AP)—A new anti-French demonstration in Naples today continued the noisy Italian agitation for African and Mediterranean territories held by France.

Classes were suspended at the University of Naples as several hundred students walked out to march on the French consulate. At the consulate, however, strong police guards turned them back.

The demonstrators then paraded through the main streets, waving flags and shouting claims to Tunisia, Corsica and Djibouti and acclaiming Premier Mussolini. Tunisia, North African protectorate; Corsica, Mediterranean island, the Djibouti, Red Sea terminus of the railway from Addis Ababa, capital of Italian Ethiopia, have been the chief French possessions claimed in the past week's Italian clamor.

Demonstration at Florence

A similar student demonstration occurred at Florence.

These manifestations followed anti-French outbursts yesterday in Rome, where the French embassy still was strongly guarded today. Genoa, Milan and Turin.

Italian afternoon papers kept the agitation boiling. Il Piccolo published an account of alleged anti-Italian measures in Tunisia under headlines such as:

"New Series of Disgracing Incidents in Tunisia—Fifty Italians Mobbed and Beaten, Physician and His Wife and Daughter Injured. School Teacher Punished—Police Intervene to Arrest Victims—Violent and Provocative Language of the Franco-Jewish Press."

Other Press Reports

Other papers reported anti-Italian developments in Tunisia "with the evident connivance of the authorities."

Il Popolo Di Roma predicted that Premier Daladier of France on a visit to Corsica next month would learn the abandonment in which the paper said France had left that Mediterranean island, while at Tunisia he would be able to learn directly of the "intolerable situation created for the Italian community" there.

Unless he revised French policies in African Tunisia, the paper said, his visit would do France more harm than good.

Morrison Youth Among Gang of Boys Held in Chicago for Robberies

Chicago, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Thirteen young men and boys described by police investigators as members of four gangs involved in more than 150 holdups, burglaries and automobile thefts were in custody today.

Most of them were teen-aged, the oldest being 22 and the youngest 16.

Investigators said some of the youthful prisoners declared they were motivated by ambitions to become "big shot gangsters," by desires for expensive automobiles, and clothes and for money to spend lavishly in cheap saloons and night clubs.

The police said all but three of the prisoners were Chicago residents. The three gave the names of Robert Volk, 22, of Clinton, Ia.; Earl Arsenault, 22, of Fairhaven, Mass.; and Robert Jacobs, 17, of Morrison, Ill. The police said the latter three would be questioned about the robbery of Harry Young at Monroe, Wis., last Monday.

Unquaranteed

Washington, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Here's a story about the recent European crisis that is just seeping through the State Department.

A court clerk reported to the department that a woman wanting to go abroad telephoned him to ask:

"If I buy a passport from you, will you guarantee that there won't be war in Europe this summer?"

You're right. The answer was "No."

SANTA CLAUS WILL TAKE OFF IN DIXON-BOUND PLANE TODAY

North Pole, Dec. 7, 1938.—(Special Dispatch from Santa Land.)

—Excitement galore and an atmosphere of tenseness gripped Santa Claus Land today as preparations for Santa's first trip to Dixon by airplane were just about completed. Santa is to take off in his new, beautiful plane, called the Santa Claus Express, at 5 P. M. (CST) from the airport here at the North Pole.

All of jolly old Santa's helpers have been scurrying here and there in a frantic effort to get every kind of toy and game completed in time to load them on to Express when it takes off in a cloud of snow from the airport this evening. These gifts range from lovely dolls that talk, sleep and act like human beings to sleds, building sets and tricycles. Many new gifts that have been invented during the past year by Santa's staff of ingenious workers will be loaded on the big plane tonight also. All the little brownies, fairies and dwarfs that have aided old St. Nick in the past year seem to become increasingly merry as the deadline of Christmas approaches to put an end to their labors for 1938. Mrs. Santa Claus has made an entirely new costume for her mirthful energetic husband so that he will be cozy and warm on his trip through the air to Dixon. She has added, of course, many nice Christmas candies and fruits for all the little children who live in the vicinity of Dixon.

When asked about his route to Dixon and the time that he expected to reach there, Santa said: "I will be in Dixon, Saturday around 2 P. M. Of course, it is quite a ways from here, 3,600 miles to be exact, but with my fine plane, I will be there in plenty of time. Tell the children to listen for my plane's siren which I will turn on when I approach the town. Then they will see me when I stand out on the wing just before making my parachute jump down to spend the rest of Saturday night with them!" Oh, ho-ho, haw-haw, I'll certainly have a lot of fun when the little tikes begin to tell me all the things that they want for Christmas. Well, I've got to be in Baffin Land by tomorrow in order to give all my little Eskimo friends their presents! S'funny, but they are just like our little American boys and girls... they wave and shout when they see me circling about their snow igloos, for they know that I'm bringing them good things to eat, warm clothes and nice toys as presents! Then the next night I will be in Ft. Churchill on the Hudson Bay just 1400 miles from Dixon. From there I will make the jump to Dixon. Well, I must go now and see that all the gifts are packed and marked correctly... but tell the little ones that they'd better be good—for old Santa will soon be on his way!"

Then Santa hurried across the snow and ice that covers the ground here at the North Pole. Old St. Nick towered over his elfin workers like some mighty giant dressed in red and his merry laughter echoed among the white-topped hills with a sound that promised many many good things for the kiddies in Dixon this Christmas.

(Telegraph Special Service.)

Polo, Dec. 7.—Robert Hoover, a junior in the high school here, encountered a double misfortune Monday noon when he suffered leg injuries and bruises and the new bicycle he was riding was badly damaged.

Division street and had started to cross the highway when it was hit by a car bearing a Pennsylvania license. The automobile was traveling slowly, but the wet pavement made it almost impossible for the driver to stop. The boy narrowly escaped more serious injury.

Reynolds Township Deputy Sheriff Escapes Injury When Fast Train Strikes His Car

Stoddard Danekeas, well known Reynolds township farmer and deputy sheriff, miraculously escaped death or serious injury Monday evening, while driving home from Rochelle. He had transacted business in Rochelle and leaving the city on state route 70, approached the Northwestern main line crossing.

A drizzling rain and fog as well as the location of a garage building at the crossing, obscured his vision, and he did not observe the speeding east bound Columbine passenger train, No. 12. The gates at the crossing were not lowered and the stream-lined locomotive pulling the train struck the front of his car. The front bumper, and one head light were sheared away as the impact threw the car sideways.

The side of the sedan next to the train was struck several times as it bounded against the side of the coaches and the train made an emergency stop, after which members of the crew investigated the damage.

Mr. Danekeas escaped without a scratch and the damage to his car was only minor and he was able to drive home after the miraculous experience.

MRS. ANNA HAHN DOOMED TO DIE EARLY THIS EVE

Appeals to U. S. Courts This Afternoon Last Hope of Poisoner

Columbus, O., Dec. 7.—(AP)—Anna Marie Hahn's 12-year-old son went to her side to comfort her today as her scheduled hours of life dwindled away.

At the same time the convicted prisoner's counsel planned a possible appeal to another woman—Judge Florence E. Allen of the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals—in a last-ditch effort to prevent Mrs. Hahn's death in the electric chair tonight.

Seeking a writ of habeas corpus in Federal District court here, Attorney Joseph H. Hoodin said he would appeal to Judge Allen if the district court declined to grant his petition on the ground Mrs. Hahn did not have sufficient opportunity to defend herself.

Her composure cracked by gubernatorial refusal to intervene, Mrs. Hahn was in bed when her son, Oscar, went to the prison. Prison officials expected him to remain with her several hours, but planned to have him leave about three hours before the execution time. The boy was described as more composed than his mother.

Her Nerves Cracked

The nerves of the condemned poison slayer crumbled and she sobbed hysterically after Gov. Martin L. Davey declined to intervene in the electrocution, scheduled for 8 P. M.

"I had no idea he would do this to me," moaned Mrs. Hahn, repeatedly kissing a picture of her son. Finally, last night, she fell in a faint in her penitentiary "death row" cell. Two matrons placed her on a bed and revived her with spirits.

The matrons expressed the belief she had given up all hope of escape from becoming the first woman to die in Ohio's electric chair. But Warden J. C. Woodard said of condemned prisoners: "they're always expecting something to happen that will save them."

Woodward said Oscar will be permitted to remain with his mother until her last meal is served, about 5:30 P. M.

Last Hours With Priest

Mrs. Hahn's last hours probably will be spent with the prison's Catholic chaplain, the Rev. John A. Sullivan, for whom she has been embroidering altar cloths.

Her attorney asked permission to confront the governor with the condemned woman's son in a last desperate plea for clemency, but Davey said he would not see them.

The governor pictured Mrs. Hahn as a "cold-blooded" killer who slew in "remorseless deliberation for money."

A 32-year-old blonde born in Bavaria and never admitted to U. S. citizenship, Mrs. Hahn was convicted of administering poison to 78-year-old Jacob Wagner, a Cincinnati gardener.

The prosecution charged Wagner was only one of four elderly men poisoned by Mrs. Hahn so that she could obtain their meager savings to pay her race track losses.

Davey "Genuinely Sorry"

The governor asserted he was "genuinely sorry" that duty compelled him not to intervene.

He said he was sorry, too, for her son.

"But I think," he added, "that his mother has been most unfair."

YOUTH'S DESIRE TO "SEE THE COUNTRY" ENDS IN HIS DEATH

Venice, Ill., Dec. 7.—(AP)—A young man found dead in a boxcar, his head crushed with a railroad coupling pin, was identified today as Edward Kwekfus, 19 years old, of Racine, Wis., by his father, Frank Kwekfus, a Racine tavern operator.

The youth apparently was killed by a group of thugs who severely injured his 17-year-old companion, Kenneth Manbenath of Kenosha, Wis., throwing him from a boxcar in the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy yards at Macomb, Mo., late Saturday night.

Kwekfus' body was found in the boxcar after it had arrived in the terminal railroad yards here Sunday night. His skull was crushed and his face was mangled. The coupling pin was found in the car.

The elder Kwekfus said his son and Manbenath, friends for several years, left Racine about two weeks ago "to see the country." Neither of the youths had any money, but both were robbed of their trousseaus.

Manbenath, suffering from a skull fracture, is in serious condition in a Macon hospital. He said five or six other men, one of whom was drunk, were riding in the empty boxcar.

The list he remembered of Saturday night's happenings, he said, was when he and Kwekfus rolled up in a blanket and went to sleep in one end of the box car. He was found lying unconscious in the yards at Macon Sunday morning.

At Macon, Serg. V. C. Kelso of the Missouri state highway patrol expressed the opinion Kwekfus, large and strong for his age, was awakened by some one searching his pockets for money and was brutally beaten in a struggle with the men. He believed Manbenath was slugged while still asleep.

Readvertise Grading at Binghampton Bridge

A technicality in the bid of Frank M. Hughes & Son of this city who were awarded the contract for the grading operations at the Binghampton bridge by the road and bridge committee ten days ago, has resulted in the re-advertising of that section of the improvement. A communication from the state highway division headquarters at Springfield, received by County Superintendent of Highways Fred W. Leake today, cited a technicality in the specifications relating to tree removal at the approaches to the bridge, which resulted in re-advertising for bids on this section of the project.

Superintendent Leake stated that there would be little delay in operations in awarding a new contract, as Contractor Robert R. Beard of LaMoille to whom the contract for removing the present steel structure and building the new bridge was awarded. The present steel span is to be moved west of the present location where it will remain temporarily to accommodate pedestrian traffic, which is composed chiefly of school children attending the Binghampton school.

Union labor representatives were reported to be continuing their efforts to induce the contractors to employ union carpenters on the bridge contract.

AUTHORITIES HUNT GIRL CARRIED OFF IN BADGER STATE

Janesville, Wis., Dec. 7.—(AP)—While southern Wisconsin authorities carried on a hunt for 15-year-old Mary Cunningham of Milton Junction, District Attorney John Matteson said today he was preparing a warrant against Curtis Hansen, 35, under the state kidnapping law.

Mary disappeared Monday afternoon, a short time after she and her brother, Billy, 12, left their home with Hansen in an automobile. The children had planned a Christmas shopping trip to Janesville.

Billy said the car stalled several miles from town and that he was taken to a shack occupied by Hansen's father, Hansen, he said, apparently returned to the automobile, in which Mary had remained.

The district attorney said the warrant would be issued under that section of the law making it an offense to forcibly remove a minor from his home or forcibly detain a minor who is absent from home. Conviction on such a charge carries a penalty of imprisonment from three years to life.

Rock county authorities appealed for help from the Milwaukee office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Hansen formerly worked on the farm of Mary's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Cunningham. He left when the farm was sold three years ago, but returned recently, saying he had been at Hastings, Minn.

LEGION DEMANDS CONTINUATION OF DIES' COMMITTEE

Commander Says No Hurdle Should Be Placed in Inquiry's Path

Washington, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Stephen F. Chadwick, American Legion Commander, called on congress today to continue the life of the house committee investigating unamerican activities and appropriate more money "essential to the completion of the work."

Chairman Dies (D-Tex) of the committee has said he would ask congress for a $200,000 appropriation early next month to supplement a $25,000 fund which will be available only until January 3.

Chadwick, from the committee's witness stand, said Legionnaires felt that "no hurdle" should be placed in the committee's way.

"It is concerning itself," Chadwick said, "with a diseased condition in our international affairs which, if suffered to go unchecked, may cause our national destruction from within just as completely as external danger might do from without."

"With the November elections out of the way, the work of your committee should continue, free from the implications of partisan color which, unfortunately, was asserted during the fall campaigns."

As for the Legion itself, Chadwick said it was trying to acquaint the country with the "boring from within" tactics used by advocates of unamerican "isms." He referred to a Legion publication which suggested education as the best weapon against communism "and its kindred diseases."

Then Chadwick reviewed a number of resolutions the American Legion had adopted in convention. They included:

Condemnation of doctrines and influences "prejudicial" to the United States form of government and of proposals to make the United States an asylum for "any or all political and religious refugees" of the world; requests for congressional investigation of the "failure" of labor department officials to comply with the laws on immigration and deportation; demands that the department immediately try and deport Harry Bridges, C. I. O. west coast maritime leader, "and like undesirable aliens"; total restriction of immigration for 10 years.

A Portland, Ore., police officer told the committee Bridges and Harold Pritchett, west coast labor leaders, were attempting through their organizations to overthrow the United States government.

Captain James Keegan, chief of Portland detectives, testified evidence in his files "supports this statement absolutely."

"Do you say that their real purpose is to overthrow this government by force and violence?" Representative Starnes (D-Ala.) a committee member, asked.

"Yes, sir," was the reply. "They are moving through their labor movements and anything else open to them. We have in our files ample information to prove these statements conclusively."

Bridges is west coast C. I. O. maritime director and Keegan identified Pritchett as president of the Lumber and Saw Mill Workers' Union.

SOCIAL SECURITY PROPOSALS WILL BE GIVEN STUDY

Washington, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Some Senators professed today to see obstacles in the path of any administration proposal to extend Social Security benefits to farm and household workers.

Senator Norris (Ind.-Neb.) an administration supporter, said he feared such a step would be impractical. It is being considered by President Roosevelt and his advisers.

Norris said he believed it would be "next to impossible" to require farmers and housewives to keep payroll and tax records similar to those now used by business men in making Social Security reports.

On the other hand, Senator Green (D.-R.I.) also an administration backer, was inclined to discount this difficulty. He said he had not made up his mind on proposals to broaden the protective base of the law, but added that they must be considered from a financial standpoint as well.

An influential southern Senator, who requested anonymity, predicted that resentment among farmers over any proposal to make them liable for payroll tax payments would be felt in political circles immediately.

"If farm and domestic workers and employees of charitable institutions should be brought under the Social Security act, about 16,000,000 persons would be added to the 41,000,000 now covered by pension, unemployment insurance and other benefits."

Meanwhile, Republican Senators have been concentrating their efforts on two divergent proposals. One group, headed by Senator Vandenberg (R.-Mich.), wants to put old age pensions on a pay-as-you-go basis. Another headed by Senator Lodge (R.-Mass.) intends to carry that idea even further with a proposal to increase the amount of old age pensions.

From a Republican also came an indication that the Townsend $200-a-month old age pension plan may become a factor in congressional discussion of pensions.

Senator-elect Robert A. Taft (R.-Ohio) said he intended to fulfill his campaign promise to the Townsends to seek a hearing for their bill not only in Senate committee but on the Senate floor.

Centralia Wants Texas Co. to Build Reservoir

Centralia, Ill., Dec. 7.—(AP)—Apprehension that the city water supply would become polluted from oil wells in its vicinity today prompted municipal officials to ask the Texas Oil Company to pay seven-eighths of the cost of a new reservoir.

Mayor Louis Peifer said the proposal had been forwarded to the company's executive offices in Tulsa, Okla., for consideration after a meeting between city officials and company representatives.

The company was asked to pay seven-eighths of the cost, the mayor said, because it receives seven-eighths of the revenue from oil wells on the city property surrounding the reservoir. The city, which receives the other eighth of the revenue, would pay the balance.

Lake Centralia, the present reservoir which cost about $150,000 twenty-five years ago, is in the midst of one of the extensively explored oil areas in Illinois. The Texas Company has five producer on adjoining land and others drilling. Recently the company was given permission to drill a well in the lake.

Demobilization of Americans in Spain Goes On

Barcelona, Dec. 7.—(AP)—The second group of American volunteers to leave government Spain since Barcelona began demobilization of its international brigades is expected to enter France tomorrow. This contingent will number about 200; the first group, 332 strong, crossed into France last Friday.

After tomorrow's departure there will be left in government Spain only about 50 Americans to severely wounded to travel or whose papers have not been approved by United States authorities.

GARNER LIKELY TO SHOW POKER TRAINING SOON

Vice President Expert at Game and Also in Politics

Washington, Dec. 7.—(AP)—John Nance Garner is likely to treat the capital to a fine brand of political poker during the next two years.

He will bring expert knowledge to the game, Garner not only knows politics but he knows all the ins and outs of poker, though he has retired from active practice. He learned his politics and his poker on the frontier, polished off his knowledge of both by tackling the rough and rugged practitioners who flourished in the capital 20 years ago.

Thus, none of those who know him expect the vice-president to come back to Washington and engage in a discussion of his plans and hopes for the next two years. He does not work that way, either in politics or in poker.

Expected to Keep Silent

His friends believe he will keep silent about the presidential boom started for him in Texas yesterday. What his friends do along that line, they do on their own responsibility without the advice of the fisherman from Uvalde. He will not stop them. Neither will he encourage them.

Newspapermen in Washington will have no more luck getting him to talk about politics for publication than Alfred E. Smith had when he tried to reach Garner over the telephone from Chicago in 1932.

Smith wanted Garner to hold his Texas and California delegations tight, to keep the Democratic presidential nomination away from Franklin D. Roosevelt. A Washington hotel told Smith that Garner had retired, was not to be disturbed. By the next time Smith talked with Garner, Roosevelt had the presidential nomination.

"Didn't Have Horns"

It was not long afterward that Garner went to New York to address a gathering of business men and industrialists. One of his reasons for going, he told them, was to show them that the man whom the Democrats had nominated for vice president did not have horns.

Talk of Garner for president now brings an altogether different response from some of these same easterners than it did in 1932.

Most persons agree that Garner will play a powerful part in the 1940 Democratic convention. Some go so far as to say that the convention and the party may be torn apart by two factions—a conservative group led by Garner and a liberal one led by Roosevelt.

Garner's situation is a little different now from what it was in 1932. He was speaker of the House then, and had quite a few delegates. But he was much younger. He is 70 now. The nation never has inaugurated a president that old. William Henry Harrison at 68 was the nearest approach, and he died a few months after his inauguration.

WHOLE COUNTY ENROLLED

Detroit, Tex., Dec. 7.—(AP)—Every resident of Red River county, where Vice President John Nance Garner was born, was a member of the first official "Garner for President" club today—by edict of Dr. Nowlin Watson of Clarksville, its permanent chairman.

Old cronies of the vice president joined Texas Democrats at the log cabin where Garner's mother was born to form the club yesterday. Dr. Watson told them every man, woman and child in the county automatically came into the organization.

GOVERNMENTAL EXPENDITURES WILL BE FIXED

Reduction in Relief Appropriations to Pay for Defense Plans

Washington, Dec. 7.—(AP)—The administration expects to hold expenditures in the next fiscal year to the same levels as $1938-39, it was disclosed today, even though the outlay for defense probably will be much larger.

A high official said the president's advisers were confident the increased armaments cost could be offset by reductions in other expenditures, such as relief.

Budget estimates for the fiscal year beginning next July 1 have not been announced, but President Roosevelt's forecast of expenditures for the current 12 months was about $9,000,000,000 when he revised it last July.

At his press conference yesterday, Roosevelt said he favored a pay-as-you-go policy for the contemplated increase in armaments, even if a tax increase should be necessary.

He added, however, that new levies might not be needed, because certain government expenditures were self-liquidating.

Hope for Improvement

Some officials have expressed hope business improvement would make it possible to pare relief expenditures, one of the largest items in the federal budget. Congress appropriated $1,425,000,000 for WPA until next March 1, and at that time Roosevelt forecast an additional $500,000,000 would be needed for the succeeding four months.

Estimates have varied as to how much additional money the administration may ask for armament purposes. Some informed persons have predicted military expenditures might total as much as $1,500,000,000 next year, compared with $1,150,000,000 made available for the army and navy this year.

No Defense Tie-up

Roosevelt said yesterday he had no intention of linking the armament program to attempts to stimulate business. National defense is to be strictly a matter of national defense and nothing else, he declared.

He expressed doubt this country was lagging behind other nations in technical development of aviation. Louis Johnson, assistant secretary of war, and some other officials have said recently that U. S. pre-eminence in aviation was threatened.

Johnson has indicated a major increase in the Army Air Corps will be one of the war department's requests next year. The navy will need an estimated $150,000,000 additional for new warship construction.

Modernization of a number of old fighting vessels also is expected to be high on the navy's legislative program.

Three Davis Junction Fur Thieves Sentenced

Chicago, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Three Chicago men were sentenced to Leavenworth penitentiary yesterday by Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward after they pleaded guilty to the theft last Aug. 29 of 19 fur coats, valued at $4,000, from a Milwaukee freight car at Davis Junction, Ill.

Walter Stillwagon, 23, was sentenced to five years, and Norbert Hurry, 23, to three years for theft from interstate transportation, and Paul Machowski, 29, to one year for possession of the stolen coats.

Stillwagon and Hurry, according to Harry N. Connaughton, assistant U. S. district attorney, were under indictment at Madison, Wis., for a Dyer act violation and at Rockford, Ill., for a department store burglary.

AMERICA OUT-OF-DOORS

By O. WARREN SMITH

When these long winter evenings hang heavily on the hands of the fisherman, it is time to get the tackle in order for another angling season. After the hard usage it has received, the average bamboo rod will need some renovating. Chances are that the varnish has been cracked in places and that the windings have been frayed. Dull evenings can be brightened by putting the rod in shape.

Some rods will be in such condition as to need a thorough sanding and rubbing to make them ready for rewinding and varnishing. Rough and cracked varnish should be removed as the first step in reviving the rod. Then the frayed or missing winding should be replaced. A well wound rod has a much better action than one not properly wound even though the purpose of the winding is not to hold the rod together as some persons think.

Say It With Silk

The proper silk for winding can be obtained in any good tackle store. To start the winding, the end of the silk should be laid lengthwise of the rod and wound under. When half the needed length is wound, a separate piece of silk is placed lengthwise of the rod with the two ends projecting over the winding already in place. The loop is then wound under to the required length, the silk is held taut and broken, the end pulled through and under the winding, by drawing on the protruding ends of the loop. Next, the winding should be pressed tightly together and the slack taken up by drawing upon the ends of the thread. Finally, the ends should be cut off, close up to the winding, taking care not to disturb the winding in order to have a neat job.

Revarnishing the rod after the winding is not a difficult task but should be done only with the best of materials. A little extra expense in buying the best varnish will pay well in giving longer life to the finish. After the rod has been sanded and rubbed—if those operations are necessary, and they usually are—the rod should be varnished in a warm, dustless place. The varnish itself should be warmed slightly so that it will spread on easily. The varnish should be warm, not hot.

Beginning at the top of each joint, the varnish should be spread on with a good pencil brush. Particular care should be used to avoid getting varnish on the guides where it may cake and wear the line in casting. Take plenty of time to do the job smoothly and assemble the rod. Then hang it in a corner where it will not be reached by dust.

weight placed on the butt of the rod will keep it from warping and will help in taking out any set which may have developed during the fishing season. You'll never know the old rod when you have finished dolling it up, and it will be ready for more good service.

Mr. Walters, retired, served as superintendent of the Lawn Ridge cemetery for 32 years. Both have been members of the Methodist church for 30 years.

The couple were married Dec. 11, 1888, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Dick, in Rochelle. Their attendants were the bride's sister, now deceased, and Peter Brett, who were married two weeks after the Walters' wedding. Fifty guests witnessed the ceremony.

Mr. Walters, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Frank Walters, early Ogle county farmers, was born north of Rochelle. Mrs. Walters, who was born in Washington, Ill., came to Rochelle with her parents when 12 years old.

Crockery on Top of Stove Shown By Demonstrator

Top-stove cookery, an innovation as far as the culinary art is concerned, is proving to be a fascinating study for hundreds of housewives who have visited the National Tea company's local store at 209 West First street this week.

With Mrs. B. W. Chandler of Davenport, Ia., noted food authority, in charge, the company is sponsoring a week-long demonstration of Cast-Rite Waterless Cookware. And Mrs. Chandler not only entertains her visitors with an elaborate parade of appetizing dishes prepared the new way without water—but explains the reasons why cooking the Cast-Rite Cookware method is the best method, and answers many questions regarding food selection, planning of meals, and diet.

Sessions begin at 8 A. M. and continue until 6 P. M. Recipe booklets are distributed daily, and are a valuable aid to experienced cooks as well as those who are just learning.

Today, Mrs. Chandler demonstrated a luscious-looking upside-down cake, topped with pineapple slices and garnished with red and green cherries and pecans; a roast; a Chinese-style rice mold, garnished with pineapple and maraschino cherries; a graham cracker cake, particularly appetizing with its studding of fruits and nuts; a golden-brown apple pie; and cranberries. Tomorrow, chicken will be substituted for the roast, and fresh vegetable dishes will include green beans and sweet potatoes.

High heat is never used in Cast-Rite waterless cooking. Roasting, baking, and broiling are done atop the stove; vegetables and fruits are cooked whole, in their skins, as a rule; and the natural flavors are not extracted or diluted by boiling water, evaporated by excessive heat, or changed by overcooking.

So it naturally follows that food cooked in an improved Cast-Rite utensil reaches the table with more of its natural goodness and nourishment preserved than if it had been prepared in other ways.

Glenn A. Cortright, grocery manager, and E. Hauber, market manager, extend a special invitation to housewives of Dixon and surrounding communities to visit their store this week. An unusual feature of cooking over an ordinary electric light bulb is one of the many features of the demonstration, which closes with a gala session on Saturday.

The guests also found pleasure in a grab bag exchange of Christmas handkerchiefs. Refreshments were served afterward, with both menu and appointments carrying out the Christmas colors.

Mrs. L. W. Emmert is to entertain at the January meeting.

Practical Club Has Annual Party

A party table decorated in keeping with the Christmas season awaited members of the Practical club, when they were invited to the home of Mrs. C. A. Buchner yesterday for their annual Christmas party. A scramble luncheon was served at 1 o'clock, with Mrs. Frances Miller co-hostessing with Mrs. Buchner.

Red candles glowing in crystal candelabra, and a center piece of flowers lent a festive touch to the table.

During roll call at the opening of the afternoon business meeting, the members named songs of long ago. Mrs. L. E. Smith acted as chairman for a musical program, including a piano solo, Beethoven's Sonata in two movements with variations by Mrs. W. D. Hart, and a quiz in which Mrs. A. E. Marth received the prize.

Gift packages were exchanged at the close of the program. The members also found pleasure in planning Christmas happiness for others, voting to contribute $5 to the Goodfellow fund.

Poetry Anthology Contains Verse of Mrs. Justin Dart

"The Best Poems of 1937," a collection of verse selected by Thomas Moulton, contain a poem from the pen of Ruth Dart (Mrs. Justin Dart) of Dixon and Chicago. Mrs. Dart is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Walgreen.

The poem, "Identity," is reprinted below:
I am a thought in other minds,
An echo, sounding in the heart
To awaken songs or pangs, or find
A conversational counterpart.

I am a voice to listening ears,
A murmur, shout, or tone of truth
A ring of jollity, or tears,
A seeming sage, or hasty youth.

I am a form before the eyes,
A swinging movement, a surmise
Of grace or shapelessness.
I am a frame for touching hands,
A felt and feeling warmth that stands
Apart or in closeness.

I am a quantity to hold
Reflection of experience,
Impressed by humans manifold
In sweet or hurtful incidents.

I am a sum of all I've sensed
Of passionate intelligence,
By tongues of science influenced,
And tracings of art's testaments.

I am a page prepared by years
Of forceful primitive careers:
The issue of a race.
I am the memory to be—
The promise of posterity,
A step through changing space.

As breathing beating living
leaves,
Above the barren body grieves
Each one known and cherished,
I am not dead, They weep to see
The pieces of themselves in me
That have passed and perished.

The poem was published in the March issue of Harper's Monthly Magazine.

SKATES TODAY

Hans Brinker, whose silver skates carried him to a position of prominence in all boys' libraries a decade ago, is all but forgotten.

The Dutch lad in leather breeches who raced on the Zuyder Zee did a lot for ice skating. But Sonja Henie, the blond darling of the movies; Hazel Franklin, who is 13 and looks like Shirley Temple, and others have brought skating from a mere pastime to a great spectacle.

Companies of ice skating girls from the northern states, Minnesota, Wisconsin, and Michigan, are touring the country and attracting large crowds to watch their ballet work. Hockey, unknown in the United States until a few years ago, is attracting record crowds. A popular book has been written about figure skating.

This winter of 1938 marks the return of the Ice Age.

HOW TO SAVE TIME

Saving time is one of the best things done in the United States. A desire to save time sends us hurrying along the highways in great danger. Saving time brought about many improvements in modern equipment ranging from the huge assembly lines of industry to the orange squeezers in the kitchen.

It is of little importance here that no good use can be found for the time so saved. But the ambition to save time must generally be commended. Conservation of energy is another equally laudable ambition and both may be admirably served in the next few weeks by a few moments of thoughtfulness here and now.

IS THE NEW DEAL ON THE WAY OUT?

(By Bernarr McFadden)

Is the New Deal on the run? We have had various explanations by editorial writers throughout the country for the huge gain in votes for the Republican party. It was estimated that they would have forty or fifty additional Republican congressmen in the last election, but they have eighty-two, and eight additional Republican senators.

What has caused this change in sentiment, which will grow still more rapidly as time passes?

There is only one explanation that will be agreed upon by every one. The increase in public intelligence!

The New Deal, so called, was foisted upon us at a time when we were in the world's worst depression. We were all looking for remedies . . . changes of any kind. Any one with the courage to present a remedy, regardless of how wild, weird, and fantastic it might be, could arouse interest.

We in this country have enjoyed unusual privileges. We are suffering to an unusual degree from foolish legislation, but so far we have avoided Hitlerism. We still have our checks and balances—our three separate, distinct governmental groups which the President tried to absorb . . . the legislative, executive and the judiciary.

Germany had a system to a certain extent similar before Hitler took over legislative powers.

Washington has not only tried to usurp the governing powers of the various states, but our officials have tried, and to a certain extent successfully, to govern through bureaus and commissions.

And the people of this country, once they understand this situation, will fight it with grim determination. All we need to destroy the fantastic wild experimenting of the New Deal is understanding . . . nothing more than understanding.

The officials of Washington apparently started out through the C. I. O. to bring industry to its knees. They allowed lawlessness and violence of a rampant nature.

It was indeed pleasing beyond expression to see Governor Murphy of Michigan given an appropriate penalty for this. Notwithstanding the binding character of his oath of office, he refused to oust the sit-down strikers. He allowed them to take possession of property in a manner that was as lawless as burglary or highway robbery. The report that he used the telephone to Washington in assuming this attitude is damning evidence of his inefficiency for such a high office.

The purge on the part of the President was an additional educational factor, and from now on the high officials of the New Deal may talk less. The more they talk, the better will be the understanding of the defects of the New Deal. Their arguments are educational. The evidence of the worthlessness of their faith-cure remedies is so pronounced that any one with intelligence cannot avoid the right conclusion.

The Anti-New Deal votes will grow day by day . . . month by month.

The attack by the President on the Dies committee . . . his defense of Governor Murphy . . . and his campaigning efforts generally have greatly helped the Anti-New Deal cause.

Labor has been fooled into supporting legislation that will ultimately throttle the workers and destroy their unions.

Perhaps there is a chance of our coming back to sanity. Perhaps we may all of us realize that the good old American Constitution rigidly enforced is what made us a great nation in years gone by, and the principles that it advocates must still be adhered to if the enormous debt and the disgraceful unemployment situation is ever to be remedied.

We have had a lesson that will last us for years. We cannot avoid depressions, but we can avoid foolish interference with business by government.

From 1927 to 1929 everybody had a job who wanted to work—at high wages. If the economic law had been allowed to operate during the last depression, we would have gotten out of the difficulties the same as we did in former depressions, without the infantile efforts of governmental executives to direct us.

All we need is more education, added intelligence, to put the New Deal far—far in the background.

A NATION OF JOINERS

Recently the house committee investigating un-American activities was told that a certain gentleman was connected with at least five organizations promoting the "com-

Olympia, Washington. — This state's cat-and-dog fight between two Roosevelt Senators, which threatens to tear the local Democratic party to pieces is nationally important because it typifies the personal feuding which Roosevelt—or someone—has to patch up if the Democrats are going to carry the country in 1940.

At present Senators Homer T. Bone and Lewis B. Schwellenbach, both Democrats, both New Dealers, both strong men, would almost prefer to see the party lose out in 1940 rather than settle their personal differences.

Actually there has been little difference in political philosophy between them. There has been jealousy over who shall be the State's chief political prima donna, but this is nothing compared with a gentleman in the woodpile who has emerged as the Mark Hanna of western Washington.

He is Saul Haas, astute Collector of Customs at Seattle, and the closest chambermaid in the Bone household. Saul Haas is the chief cause of the Bone-Swellenbach row.

Saul began his political career covering the State Capitol at Olympia for a labor paper, when Homer Bone was a Farmer-Labor member of the legislature. Then kicked around and criticized, Bone looked to Haas like a man of promise.

And when Bone ran for the Senate in 1932, Haas hocked everything he had to finance the campaign, steered it to a successful conclusion. Today Senator Bone, intensely loyal, would give Haas his left arm. The two are inseparable. They work together, vacation together, think together.

Swellenbach vs. Haas.

Saul Haas also worked with Lew Schwellenbach, contributed materially toward his election. One contribution was a loan of $1,000.

That loan has now become the subject of bitter back-biting. Haas goes around exhibiting a letter from Schwellenbach acknowledging the loan and promising to pay it. But, adds Haas, once Schwellenbach was safely elected, he declined to pay.

The Senator, however, says the opposite. The loan has been paid in full, he says, though he had to repay on the installment plan.

Haas now admits this but counters with the statement that Schwellenbach deducted from the loan the cost of an extra bed in Schwellenbach's hotel room which Haas occupied while visiting the Senator in Washington, D. C. At that time, he was helping put out a special issue of the magazine "Labor" to aid the Senator.

"Would you charge me if I came to see you and spent a few weeks as your guest?" asks Saul, in an aggrieved tone. "Lew and I were like brothers."

"Furthermore, I called him up once to get him to do something for me and what do you think he said? He said: 'You'll have to speak to my Secretary about that, Saul. I'm a Senator now!'"

Two-Bit Politics.
Upon the outcome of such petty personal peevishness rests the future of Washington State Democracy.

Republicans and Democratic conservatives are chortling joyfully on the sidelines. For if the feud continues there is no question that Washington, one of the few States above the Mason-Dixon line to return to a complete Democratic delegation in 1938, will go Republican in 1940.

Already Schwellenbach's enemies in the Haas camp have started digging into his career as a laundryman in order to smear him if he is Roosevelt's choice for the Supreme Court.

Real fact is that Schwellenbach needs Haas, and Haas needs Schwellenbach. The Senator has become one of Roosevelt's most forthright and effective defenders in Congress. He is one of the few Senators the President can always rely upon. In the Capital his rating is AA+.

In his own State his rating with labor is equally high, but the swing away from the New Deal has hurt him with the farmers. And he is anathema to business.

He has just led a drive against the anti-picketing bill, for the defeat of which he personally was largely responsible.

But with the swing of the pendulum away from the Democrats, Schwellenbach cannot afford opposition to his own re-election in 1940 from the other Democratic Senator, or from Bone's alter ego, Haas.

Moneyless Campaign.
Senator Bone has just conducted one of the most remarkable campaigns in recent political history. Refusing all donations to his campaign, without advertising, without use of the congressional frank, or any appeal to the voters, Bone was overwhelmingly re-nominated and re-elected.

Total amount spent was about $400, all going toward gasoline, hotel bills and other expenses of Bone's own personal travel.

Only appeal Bone made was his own speeches, and these, it is important to note, were far more radical than has recent voting record on the floor of the Senate, where, of late, he has veered somewhat away from the New Deal.

Behind the Bone campaign, however, was the astute organization work of Saul Haas. Taking a leave of absence from his Customs office, Saul spent the entire summer organizing the State of Washington. He has a card index of 51,000 Democratic voters, all supporters of Bone and Haas, all potential opponents of Senator Schwellenbach. "It was one of the most thorough organization jobs ever done in the Pacific Northwest."

Forgive and Forget?
Probably Bone would be ready to forgive and forget if Schwellenbach met him half way—but it all depends on Haas. On this point Bone is putty in the hands of his campaign manager.

Meanwhile Haas is broadening his political power. Rated by the Treasury as one of the best Collectors of Customs in the country, Haas also has a radio station of increasing influence.

Able, industrious, intensely loyal to his friends, Haas is relentless toward his enemies. And if present trends continue he will probably split the Democratic party wide open in order to defeat Schwellenbach in 1940.

LET'S EXPLORE YOUR MIND

Albert Edward Wiggam, S. Sc., Author of "THE MARKS OF A CLEAR MIND."

"The keenest anguish known to human nature is the pain of a new idea." (Bagehot). We hope this column brings you pain.

Answer to Question No. 1

1. Yes. President Theodore Roosevelt urged parents to teach their children how to spend, not how to save. Teaching people merely to save, save, save, sets up wrong, selfish attitudes about money—one of the worst defects anyone can have. If everyone were taught how to make the wisest use of every penny, we would have less poverty especially in old age when millions of persons who have made enough money for a comfortable old age they have not saved it by wise spending.

Answer to Question No. 2

2. No. It is a crime against childhood. The stutterer, especially a child, suffers sheer agony because others laugh at his mistakes. Stuttering is not merely a defect of speech but a social stigma, a profound disturbance of the entire nervous system and personality—often brought on by parents who punish and ridicule the child for not talking like other children.

I earnestly recommend to all stutterers, their parents and teachers, a wonderful story of the cure of stuttering—"And the Stutterer Talked" by Kantor and Kohn. Your public library probably has this book.

Answer to Question No. 3

1. Not often. Nearly all our likes and dislikes, our preferences and aversions are not natural but due to our rearing and experience—especially in childhood. Farm boys and girls are scarcely, if at all, afraid of or have an aversion against snakes, bugs and the like because they have handled them since childhood. Race prejudices are nearly all due to propaganda and social custom. They are not natural or inborn at all.

UTOPIA

Who in Dixon, or in all the world would not welcome a Utopia.

Perhaps such a condition would never be fully realized, but if some miraculous plan could be conceived and executed that would even in part achieve such a state, who would or could denounce it.

The Townsend Plan enactment, as near as possible being an Utopian state of affairs to America.

If all old people had security, and spending power, the young and middle aged would have earning and buying power. In Dixon and vicinity alone that would mean more business for the telephone company, utility company, lumber, cement and contractors, wholesale houses, home owned and chain stores, butcher, baker, jeweler, hotels, cafes, gas stations, florists, barbers, churches, florists, photo studios. People would eat butter instead of oleo, drink more milk, this would help the dairies, which would help the farmer, who would buy more wire fence and wire cloth which would employ more men at the wire mill. People would buy new shoes and clothes instead of rummage sale goods, that would give shoe factories and garment shops more business; the churches would have donations to take the place of raising money that way, as a per cent of the monthly annuity is set aside for church donations.

Washing machines, sewing machines, rugs, furniture, wall paper, paint and everything that money can buy would be bought by the people who now can only wish. There would be more pleasure mixed with the everyday business of life. More dancing which would employ more musicians, more hard roads to run new cars over. All of this would bring more money to business involved with which to pay the two per cent transaction tax, that would pay the monthly annuity to the old people, which in turn would give buying power and keep the ball of prosperity rolling.

As unofficial inquiring reporter I received the following answers to questions:

First: I seldom go to a show, we need money for other things, but I know and admire Mrs. Reagan, so I went to see Ronald Reagan's picture, but I felt like a thief for spending the 5 cents.

Second: I need a permanent but can't afford it.

Third: It is pretty hard work washing clothes on a board but we can't afford a washing machine.

Fourth: My feet hurt me all the time, but I just can't afford to have them cared for.

Fifth: God knows I would like to pay my bills, especially the doctor because we needed him pretty bad when we called him.

Sixth: I would love to go to church but we don't have money to give, or decent clothing to wear.

Seventh: I wish we could eat butter instead of oleo and have milk and eggs.

Eighth: I want to have some pictures taken of the children while they are small but we need the money for other things.

Ninth: I wish we could have a phone as we don't have a car and I enjoy talking to friends. You see I can't walk very good any more.

Tenth: Well, I guess that they will just have to turn off the lights, we can't pay the bill right now.

Three of these folks take The Telegraph, two take some other paper, five none at all, but all stated they would take a paper if they could, through the added subscription newspaper carriers would benefit, for not only five but a probable 500 would be added to the list in Dixon alone. Wouldn't it be splendid if we could all be God-fellowers at Christmas time instead of the few who are able and willing to answer the call for help of their fellow co-operation here are all many who so dearly love Christmas

FANFARE—

By DON DANIELSON

The Industrial Basketball League gets off to its start tonight with the first game scheduled for 7:30 at the high school gym. The I. N. U. boys meet Reynolds in the first game of the twin bill and Eichlers and Bordens will ring down the first-night curtain. Nearly all of the players in the league are former members of the high school teams and have followed the game since leaving school. There's a lot of classy ball-playing in store for the fans who turn out to give the league its send-off night—and more to follow each Wednesday night throughout the season.

Trailing throughout three periods in the game, Oregon came from behind last night to nose out Ashton in the photo-finish score of 20 to 19. The Ogle county team scored half of its points in the last frame as the boys trailed at the quarter 6 to 1, 10 to 6 at the half and 16 to 10 after the third period. Franklin, Oregon center, and Bailey, Ashton forward, made 11 points each. The lightweight game was won by Oregon 25 to 8. On Tuesday Oregon will meet Pecatonica on the home floor.

Leaf River won its fourth consecutive game in the Route 72 conference last night by defeating Forreston 46 to 15. The Leafers now top the conference with a percentage of 1.000. Other ranking teams in the loop are Byron, Monroe Center, Franklin Grove, Stillman Valley, Forreston, Kirkland and Ashton.

The first of a series of rummy parties to be held at the Elks club for the membership, brought championship laurels to Chris Popma, state highway department engineer last evening. It was the first of a series of contests and brought fourth several entrants. A social session was enjoyed at the conclusion of play.

Ping pongers at the Dixon Elks club are putting on the finishing touches in making ready for some stiff competition during the winter months. Several of the followers of the game have been practicing for a tournament to be conducted among the members and several visiting teams are to appear here. A team will be selected from the group to represent the Elks club in a series of away from home contests. Chairman Dave Crawford anticipates a very busy season and has arranged to accommodate several additional players by adding a new table to the courts. Backing nets are also being placed. There are now three regulation tables available to the players.

Princeton high school has been invited to join the Blackhawk conference. It is probable that the school will accept the invitation. Geneseo has joined the conference and will take part in the track schedule next spring.

Members of the local Elk lodge are getting in some warm-up practice for an old-fashioned polo tournament which is to start soon after the first of the year. Jack Herbst has already qualified as a favorite in the tourney by defeating opponents who have been considered strong contenders for honors. Last evening in a practice set, he humiliated Bob DuPuy by taking three out of four games. Web Poole is Jack's next opponent, then comes Bill Rhodes and Gilbert Finch. In this trio he will encounter some strong competition, but should be able to survive, he will be obliged to give a good handicap when the tournament opens.

The time draws nearer to Dixon high school's basketball tilt with the cagers from Freeport here on Friday night. Replacing Milt Schwager as major mentor of the bucket-makers and lightweight football coach, Merritt Allen began at Freeport this fall after coaching successfully at Eldorado, McLeansboro and Carbondale, down-state. His last two Carbondale titles were state finalists, the 1937-38 aggregation eliminating Rockford at the state tournament.

Inheriting almost nothing in the way of experienced material, Coach Allen of Freeport has, in the few weeks of practice, gained the complete confidence of his Orange and Black major squad and has fashioned a varsity group that shows distinction in spite of the trouncing at the hands of Fulton, 30 to 19, last Friday night.

FANS ARE GETTING STEAMED UP ABOUT PRO GRID PLAYOFF

(By The Associated Press)

New York, Dec. 7.—(AP)—New York fans, who looked upon pro football most of the season merely as a pleasant, Sunday afternoon entertainment, have begun to get really steamed up about their Giants and next Sunday's playoff with the Green Bay Packers for the National League championship.

When the first batch of playoff tickets went on sale yesterday, about 300 customers already were standing in line, and the box office did a rushing business all day. About 10,000 were sold the first day.

Dale Burnett, who suffered a slight concussion in the Washington game last Sunday, was expected to rejoin the squad today. Since the Packers have had plenty of time since their last game, Nov. 20 and probably have given a lot of thought to their 15-3 loss to the Giants then, the New Yorkers figure they have a real choice ahead.

In their previous meeting, Green Bay outgained New York about 2 to 1 and had an edge in nearly every department of play. Six pass interceptions by the Giants, one resulting in a touchdown, and a 75-yard run by Tuffy Leemans gave the Giants the decision.

Over the season the Packers show a smaller edge on the offense, scoring the record total of 223 points largely through their touchdown passes. The Giants have a defensive bulge, especially when it comes to snatching their rivals' passes. They intercepted 34 passes during the regular season.

DIED IN CHICAGO FIRE

Chicago, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Robert Bohner, 40, was burned to death and his wife Della, 54, was seriously injured this morning when fire broke out in their attic apartment. Their 13-year-old son Robert, Jr., escaped by jumping out of a window onto the roof of an adjacent building. Mrs. Bohner was taken to the County Hospital suffering from serious burns. The origin of the fire was not determined immediately.

BASEBALL CHIEFS ALL GATHER FOR ANNUAL MEETING

To Swapping and Dicker-ing Will Be Added Speeches

New Orleans, Dec. 7.—(AP)—The wind among the potted palms grew to a gale today as the National Association of Professional baseball leagues opened its annual convention.

To all the talk, supposed to involve swapping and dicker-ing, which came before the convention now will be added speeches and arguments over rule changes.

They were all there, or almost all, from old George Napoleon Rucker who pitched from the south side 10 years for Brooklyn in pre-historic times to Frank Frisch, ex-manager of the St. Louis Cardinals' Gas House gang.

Johnny Evers, of Evers-to-Tinker-to-etc., memory, was there. So was William Terry, Giants' manager and oil-man in his own right. So was Clarence "Pants" Rowland who once managed the Chicago White Sox.

Biggest Deal So Far

As for deals, the biggest one so far was maneuvered yesterday by the Giants and the Chicago Cubs through their respective managers, Mr. Terry and Gabby Hartnett.

The Cubs swapped Shortstop Billy Jurges, Catcher Ken O'Dea and Outfielder Frank Demaree to the Giants for Outfielders Hank Leiber, catcher Gus Mancuso and shortstop Dick Bartell.

Mr. Terry, when the deal was announced, smiled like the fish that just swallowed the cat. The happy Hartnett said in language modified for reading purposes: "Terry thinks he gyped me, but I know I gyped him."

The Giants also announced that Chalmers "Bill" Cissell, veteran second baseman, had been sold to the Hollywood club of the Pacific Coast League on a cash deal.

Announce Sales

Jersey City said Infielder Babe Herman had been sold to Hollywood while St. Paul announced Outfielder George Washington had been sold to Shreveport.

The St. Louis Browns figured in the picture by trading, on undisclosed terms, Infielder Tom Carey to the Boston Red Sox for Pitcher Johnny Marcum.

And just to start a vogue Henry Emmet (Heinie) Manush, veteran outfielder, was the first to sign a 1939 contract with the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Santa Anita Handicap Draws 107 Nominees

Los Angeles, Dec. 7.—(AP)—The fifth running of the world's richest turf classic—the $100,000 added Santa Anita Handicap—scheduled for next March 4—to-day drew a record smashing list of 107 nominees. Ninety-three were nominated last year.

With the exception of War Admiral and Lawrin virtually every turf star of any importance in the world was named in the huge list.

Heaviest nominator is Louis B. Mayer, film studio executive, who made eligible seven horses by the payment of $100 nomination fee for each.

Stagehand, who won the fourth running of the rich event, two months before his third birthday, will be eligible as will 13 current two-year olds entered by owners ambitious to emulate the colt's 1938 victory.

C. S. Howard's Seabiscuit, campaigning for leading money in racing honors, and conqueror of the mighty War Admiral this fall, was nominated for the third time.

O'Brien Returns Home

To Texas With Trophy And a Swell Memory

New York, Dec. 7.—(AP)—With the Heisman trophy in his luggage and the memory of a swell time in the big town to carry through the dull winter months, Davey O'Brien went back to Texas today to practice a little more football.

O'Brien received the trophy, given annually by the downtown A. C. to "the outstanding football player of the year," at a dinner last night attended by about 1,200 people, including many famous oldtime football stars.

CHIEF TRENDS IN FOOTBALL DURING PAST YEAR NOTED

New Stress Was Laid on "Controlled" Punting to the Sidelines

New York, Dec. 7.—(AP)—The forward pass, football's most spectacular play, fulfilled its mission as a sustained threat and a regular ground gainer, new stress was laid on "controlled" kicking to the sidelines and the once logy lineman ran and blocked as never before.

These were the principal trends noticed in the 1938 season by coaches, scouts, writers and observers who participated in the annual Associated Press poll.

At the same time the five-man line, the darling of the strategists a year ago, fell into disuse in most sectors, gaining most of its adherents on the Pacific coast. The lateral pass also was less noticeable—it was considered too dangerous by the majority of the coaches.

Less Passing In Big 10

Only one sector stood firm against the shower of leather that fell on the nation's gridirons. The Big Ten mentors noticed less forward passes with Minnesota, the champion; Michigan, the heir-apparent, and Ohio State, long the home of football legendarism, depending on their running attacks to eat up the yardage.

On the other hand, such rallying points of gridiron conservatism as New England and the Pacific coast used the pass more than ever before, but the southwest as usual produced the best passing.

Texas Christian rode to the top of the nation's list on Davey O'Brien's passing and running.

Controlled kicking toward the sidelines and away from the safety men reached an apex in Duke's victory over Pitt when Eric Tipton punted a wet and soggy ball with the precision and range of a howitzer. The trend was noticeable too in the northeast and midwest.

Speed is Essential Part

Speed today is an essential part of a guard or tackle's equipment. The introduction of "time wasters" in plays gave the linemen time to pull out and run.

The five man line was replaced by a seven and eight man setup in the midwest and east. The Pacific coast, where passing flourished, used the five man formation. In the east, at least, coaches found the formation too vulnerable to the thrusts of a good backer.

Offensive formations lost their identity. The single and double wing, the Notre Dame and the short punt formations and their variations all were used by many major elevens.

Few coaches agitated for rule changes in their reports. Many think the point after touchdown rule unfair but none has a workable substitute.

Iowa Will Meet South Dakota in '39 Opener

Iowa City, Ia., Dec. 7.—(AP)—University of Iowa athletic officials announced today they had signed the University of South Dakota for the opening game of the 1939 football season, Sept. 30.

Iowa, with Dr. Eddie Anderson as head coach, also will play six Big Ten teams and Notre Dame.

England's largest window is found in York Minster. The window is 75 feet high and 32 feet wide.

Ya Gotta Stop That Tossing of Bottles At the Poor Old Ump

New Orleans, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Baseball's bosses were told today they'd have to do something about the fans and players who, with increasing lustiness and frequency, are pitching left hooks and empty bottles at umpires.

"There has been an epidemic of assaults upon umpires during the past season," explained W. G. Bramham of Durham, N. C., president of the National Association of Professional Baseball League, in his annual report at the convention here.

He said umpires who "become inoculated with fear" of physical injury or loss of their positions become totally inefficient and easy prey to the ever-present and tempting gambler, or the threats of local fans, club owners or managers.

"We warned that the association would see to it that umpires are 'protected 100 per cent' and that offending players would be fined heavily and suspended for not less than 90 days."

"Clubs and players are also put on notice," he said, "that sidestepping the duty of protecting umpires from assault by irate fans will result in heavy penalties, even to the extent of the forfeiture of franchises."

Employers Warned

Washington, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Paul Sifton, deputy wage-hour administrator, cautioned employers in a statement today against "winking" at unrecorded overtime work by their employees.

"If an employee is in fact allowed to work overtime even though without express official authority," he said, "the hours so spent x x x must be taken into account."

Challenge World

London, Dec. 7.—The 11 Drummond brothers of South Lambeth have issued a challenge to any family team in the world for a game of football, cricket or darts.

If a candle had three ends...

Those who burn the candle at both ends are borrowing tomorrow's pleasures for today. If a candle had three ends they'd burn them all. Then, there's the fellow who never lights his candle at all. He's bluffed by his fears of tomorrow.

The destiny of our America depends upon those who can see today's needs clearly...

Such as the spirit of our gallant forefathers. Had they burned the candle at both ends, or, had they failed to burn it at all... they would have accomplished nothing. Instead, they left us a priceless heritage... a land and opportunities that other nations envy.
